Steel bar cushions jar in REDESIGNED '60 CHEVY TRUCKS

A revolutionary new suspension system gives vast improvement in ride, durability, and control to 1960 Chevrolet trucks. Front wheels are independently sprung on frictionless torsion rods. Rear suspensions are new, with coil springs on light-duty models and stronger, softer riding leaf springs on heavier models for improved cushioning of load and driver. New frames reduce height up to seven inches, with some cab floors at step-in level from the ground. Styling is new with rubber-mounted, roomier cabs. Inside steps have been eliminated, providing a full-width floor.

most certain defeat.
In recent years I have resumed a boyhood hobby of stamp collecting, when I discovered how relaxing the hobby could be. I am a very amateur collector, with out knowing anything of the intricacies of what has become an enormous business. I have, however, been interested enough to subscribe to some stamp papers, especially to the well known Meekel's Weekly Stamp News.

It was in this paper for Aug. 7 that I saw the article "Religion in Stamps," by Glenn D. Everett, telling this remarkable story of "Winning Africa for Christ." The occasion was the issuing of a stamp by the Finnish government to mark the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Finnish Missionary Society.

Finnish Lutherans had been supporting missions with German Lutherans, but inspired by news of David Livingstone, and stories of Africa brought back by Finnish sailors, they determined to organize a missionary society of their own in 1839.

But it was 10 years before money and volunteers were available to launch the mission to Africa, and it was another 10 years before the first converts, only four, were baptized. In 1869 five ordained young men with several lay workers set out for Ovambo land, an area of Southwest Africa, below the Congo, and in the following year with five wagons, each drawn by teams of 14 oxen, reached the village of Ondonga.

At first well received by the natives, trouble began when hostile traders and slavers incited chiefs and witch doctors against the missionaries.

It was little wonder that after virtually 20 years, with opposition and destruction, and only four converts to show, there were many who wanted to abandon the mission. But the missionaries stayed.

Today, the church in Ovambo land has over 60 missionaries, 43 native pastors, 818 lay teachers and evangelists and more than 100,000 African members, and the

Cigarettes Made Could Reach Millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cigarettes were produced year to make a carpet the earth to the moon, the State Department reported. The world output was 15 billion cigarettes—470 billion American. That was an increase of 4 1/2 per cent over 1958 world total.

To reach the moon, at the point to the earth, the carpet would have to extend 700 miles.

Finnish missions have spread to Tanganyika and other parts of Africa.

The story of such triumphs and destruction points to the outcome in Ecuadorian mission in which five missionaries have given lives, an dthe widow of one relative and associates, along on with incredible and a love and devotion seems to be winning the band. The cynical might even those who killed the band. The cynical might Abandon it all! Why wish and further violence?

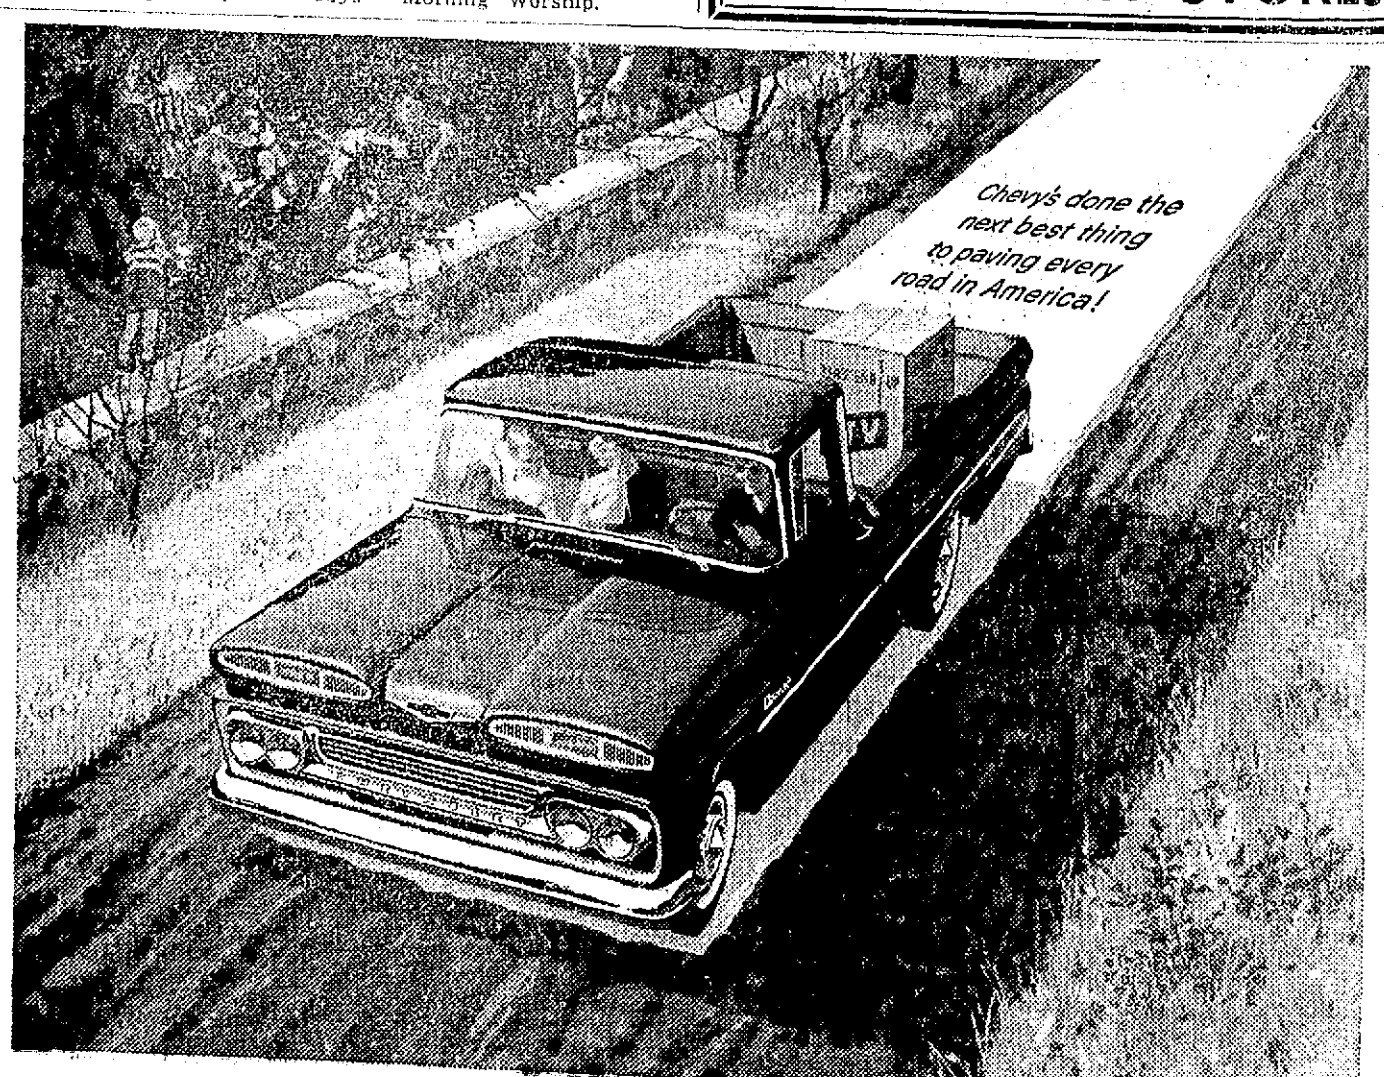

But in the light of the African mission experience may well wonder what is or perhaps much less, among Aucas Indians will show.

1,000 Motor Scooters Are Licensed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Police have licensed about 1,000 motor scooter drivers under a 1959 law which became effective July 1.

Sgt. Bill Miller, chief examiner in the Drivers License Division, estimated another 1,000 young riders either put away their scooters or failed to get licenses.

The 1959 law requires youngsters 13-15 to obtain a special driver's license to operate their scooters. Those under 13 cannot ride at all. Those over 16 can get a motor-cycle stamp on a regular driver's license.

Prior to adoption of the law, there was no regulation of scooter drivers under 16. They weren't eligible for a regular driver's license and no other regulatory methods were set up.

Miller said some arrests already have been made under the law and 25 to 30 persons had been visited over the state.

Local police draw the principal responsibility for enforcement because scooters are ridden mostly in the cities and towns, but State Police have made some arrests on the highways.

Miller said he had a few complaints from parents whose children under 13 were prohibited from

Dynamiters Ask Change of Venue

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three men charged in Labor Day dynamite bombings linked to Little Rock's integration dispute plan to seek a change of venue.

Attorney Harry C. Robinson yesterday notified Circuit Judge William J. Kirby that a change of venue motion would be filed because his clients could not obtain a fair trial in Little Rock.

Kirby set Oct. 22 to hear Robinson's motion.

Robinson's clients are Jesse Raymond Perry, 24; John Taylor Coggin, 30, and Samuel G. Beavers, 40. Perry's trial is set Oct. 26, Coggin's Nov. 3 and Beavers' Nov. 12.

Three bomb blasts the night of Sept. 7 damaged the Little Rock School Board building, the business office of Mayor Werner C. Kropp and a station wagon of Fire Chief Glenn Nalley. No one was hurt.

If a change of venue is granted, the trials would be held at Perryville, the only other court in Kirby's judicial district.

A fourth man charged in the bombing, "But most of them agreed to set the machines up until their kids were old enough," he said. "I think everybody realizes that this is a good law."

Baptist Official Resigns Post

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Edgar Williamson, a Little Rock minister, is retiring as secretary of the Sunday School Department of the Arkansas Baptist Convention, it was announced today.

He has held the position since 1937.

Dr. Williamson will be succeeded by Lawson Hatfield, a native of Little Rock who has been secretary of new work for the Sunday School Board at Nashville, Tenn.

Horsing Around With Horses Brings Nags From Mom-in-law

By DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband and my mother are having trouble getting along, and we've only been married six weeks. My husband likes the horses and mother says he'd do better to put some money into household furniture instead of losing it at the races. We're living in a furnished room and have no hopes of moving unless my husband makes a killing at the race track. He's 28 and mother thinks he should be settled now. I'm 18. Things have gotten so bad he won't even visit my parents. He says if I want to go, I can go alone. — Millie.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Mom's only fault is concern over you. A man of 28 should be able to provide something better than a furnished room for his bride. Unless you can woo him away from the race track, the future isn't too rosy for you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband has been going with another girl for the past year. We separated four times, but each time he promises to quit her and be good. Of course he's broken the promise every time. The fourth time I wouldn't go back and now he's giving with the girl. I'd like to get him back. Should I let him know it? — Beth.

Dear Dorothy: What good would it do? He might come back to you, but in a few months he'd be off again. Let him make the first move this time.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 13 and have a sister 17. Our privileges depend on our grades. For instance, if I get low marks for a particular week, I can't go to the movies that week-end. This is all right with me, but although my grades are 20 per cent higher than my sister's, she's permitted to do many more things than I can. I can't figure it out. — M.E.

Dear M. E.: Well, your sister is approximately 20 per cent older than you, so that cancels out your advantage in marks. Privileges and punishments should be meted out on a proportionate basis. Does that make it easier to figure? Think it over and you'll

Ailing Cats Are Leary of Cards at Fairview

The injury-plagued Hope Bobcats journey to Fairview at Camden for a conference game with the Cardinals.

Hope will be playing without the services of Halback Eddie King and fullback Terry Don Thurman. Only one limited action, Thurman's replacement, Ford Ward, has been out for a couple of weeks, so the Bobcats will go with a sophomore fullback, Charles Dudeney.

The Cardinals have run hot and cold this season winning two while dropping three. But they are always tough on their home field. At least the Bobcats have taken some very sound lickings there even when they were favored to win.

So tonight's contest will see the Bobcats depending mainly on defense with the offense so crippled. The coaches just hope they can score and hold off the Cardinals attack. Loss of the contest would eliminate Hope from any title hopes. The Cardinals have nothing to lose and will go all out.

Many local fans will accompany the team to Fairview. The Hope station has received permission to broadcast the game.

Little Rock Hall and Pine Bluff square off tonight in a tussle for the Big Nine Conference lead. But Little Rock Central and Texarkana will be playing a game almost as vital.

All four teams have lost one game each in league competition. Hall and Pine Bluff have 2-1 records compared to 1-1 for Central and 2-1 for Texarkana.

Fort Smith plays host to Blytheville in another important league scrap. And El Dorado hosts Smackover to Region 4AA in a Southwest Arkansas grudge battle. Central and Pine Bluff, hosts teams, rate slight edges in their games. Fort Smith and El Dorado also are favored.

And in another league game, North Little Rock is favored over Hot Springs, winless in five games and scoreless in its last four.

Smackover is the favorite in 4AA but isn't expected to overcome El Dorado's depth and size.

Two other class AA regional favorites — Little Rock Catholic and Forrest City — are favored to win tonight over Jacksonville and Newport, respectively.

Texarkana's speed and one good line isn't expected to overcome Central's two good lines, adequate speed and tricky passing attack.

Five Unbeaten Elevens Will Fall Saturday

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fran Curei, a mosquito bunt size football player compared to Navy's "22 skidoo" battlewings, leads the Miami (Fla.) Hurricanes against the Middles tonight in the Orange Bowl to open a king-size college football weekend.

Curei, a 5-foot-9 senior, is the hub of a Miami team that has won two of three games, losing last week to Louisiana State, top-ranked team in the Associated Press poll.

The 152-pound quarterback is also the main hope for a revival by the Hurricanes. They won only 2 of 10 games in 1958.

Navy, now 2-2 after winning its first two games, relies on quarterbacks Joe Tranchini and Jim Musfield to lead its two-platoon attack.

Utah is at Denver in another game tonight.

Saturday, the major unbeaten begin a battle for survival. At least five are good bets to fall. Five games pit 10 unbeaten, including Texas' game with Arkansas. Southern California's battle with Washington and Air Force's encounter with Oregon.

In addition, eighth-ranked Syracuse meets Holy Cross and unscathed-upon Yale travels to Cornell.

Texas, third-ranked after last week's 19-12 victory over Oklahoma, will send an attack headed by halfbacks Jack Collins and Rene Ramirez against a defense as tough as its own. Arkansas, like Texas, has given only two touchdowns. Both have run up 40 touchdowns.

Southern Cal (No. 7) brings its 3-0 record to Washington (4-0) headed by its mammoth line that should put on quite an offensive duel.

Fullback Jim Bob Weir of Fort Smith leads the league in scoring with 34 points in five games. Edwards has 42 points while Jerry Mooney of El Dorado and Gary Parker of North Little Rock have 24 points each.

Pine Bluff's flashy offense, paced by quarterback Gordon Guest, is expected to be too much for Hall's steady but unsensational Warriors. Hall took a 13-0 beating at the hands of Texarkana and Pine Bluff beat the Razorbacks earlier in the season.

In top Class AA games around the state, Rogers rates a slight favorite role over Subiaco, Fayetteville is favored over Bentonville, Springfield, Mo., at Fayetteville.

Springfield, Mo., at Fayetteville Harrison at Bentonville Subiaco at Rogers Springdale at Silas Springs Forrest City at Newport Helena at De Witt Wynne at West Memphis Benton at Russellville Little Rock Catholic at Jacksonville.

Baby Tigers Latest Addition to World's Largest Menagerie

BEAUTY, (Miss Marilyn Medina) and the little beasts — the most recent acquisitions to the enormous traveling zoo of Al G. Kelly and Miller Bros., largest Circus, two baby tigers named Joplin and Paris, named in honor of the two cities in which they were born, respectively Joplin, Missouri, and Paris, Texas, during the first week of this year's tour. Coincidentally the mother is named "Paris," the fact she was a product of "Jungle Imports" in 1946, an engagement stand on that year's itinerary. Traditionally, an engagement stand is named after towns in which they were born or received in shipment from the jungles, unless the particular metropolis has a tongue twister name. More than 200 rare and unusual beasts and birds grace the block-long menagerie of Al G. Kelly and Miller Bros. Circus scheduled for afternoon and night performances at Hope on Saturday, Oct. 24th at the Blevins road grounds.

tops the conference defensively, and an attack that lays only in passing offense. The Huskies will counter with quarterback Bob Schlerodt and halfback Don McKeta, its 12 punch to date.

Syracuse, tops nationally in defense, will have its equally high-powered offense tested by a stout Holy Cross line that has given only one touchdown in three games. Both have 3-0 records.

Top-ranked Louisiana State begins defense of its Southeastern title at Kentucky, facing a Wildcat team that has lost all three SEC games and has beaten only Detroit. LSU is 4-0.

Other SEC games featuring top-ranked teams finds Georgia Tech (No. 4) going against Auburn. Unscored-upon and unbeaten (4-0) Mississippi, ranked fifth, meets Tulane, winner of its last two.

In the Big Ten, second-ranked Northwestern faces Michigan but must go without halfback Ron Burton, out with a sprained ankle, and with a quarterback situation that is in the hands of reserves after Dick Thornton's injury two weeks ago. Purdue (2-0-1), ranked sixth and tops defensively in the Big Ten, meets Ohio State. Iowa (No. 9) sends its high-powered aerial game against Wisconsin.

Tenth rated Penn State, unbeaten in four games, plays Boston University.

Notre Dame travels to Michigan State in the Television Game of the Day. Unscored upon Penn (3-0) plays Brown in an Ivy League game.

Doctors Name a Fort Smith Man

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Louis A. Whitaker Jr. of Fort Smith yesterday was chosen president-elect of the Arkansas Academy of General Practice.

That means he will automatically become president next year.

Dr. Guy R. Farris of Little Rock took over as the new president. Dr. Wayne Workman of Blytheville was elected vice president.

The preliminary meetings probably will center around a party in Washington of Western leaders — President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Adenauer came out Tuesday for a Western summit meeting when he met with newsmen at Bonn. In Washington, top diplomatic officials privately supported the idea which, in fact, has been under discussion among Western capitals for several days.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter decided last week, following Macmillan's re-election in Britain, that they would prefer to have the summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev before the end of the year. They also decided that if there were compelling reasons for delay they could wait until the summit meeting was held in Washington. The meeting was held Wednesday, Oct. 14 in Yergers Gym with approximately 65 officers and leaders attending from Miller, Clark, Nevada, Ouachita, Columbia, Lafayette and Hempstead counties.

Hempstead was represented by 11 persons. They were Mrs. Verdie Walker, Mrs. Queen Johnson, Mrs. Nollie Walker, and Mrs. Ola Briggs of McCaskill; Mrs. A. R. Johnson and Mrs. Hester Witherspoon of Southeast Club, Hope; Mrs. Lethia Layson, Mrs. Lurenda Evans, Mrs. Mary Regans of New Hope; Mrs. Pearl Cheatham of Mars Hill and Mrs. Dottie Colter of Antioch.

The meeting began with group singing from Miller County. Mrs. Colbert presided over the meeting. Columbia County led devotion at which time the HD Club collected was repeated by the group.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Doss, Assistant HD Agent for Negro Work of Nevada, gave an illustrated talk on "A Look At Leadership."

Miss Dorothy Price, District Agent, gave a demonstration on "Planning A Major Subject-Matter Program." In this demonstration, it was pointed out that the process of program planning involves people identifies problems, establishes goals and causes decisions to be made.

Hempstead County delegates presented a two act skit on "Are You Gully?"

Cayce B. Smith, Assistant County Agent, served as guidance director of the "huddle groups."

Miss E. L. Ford, Assistant HD Agent, stated that the meeting was inspirational and helpful in that we will have a better trained and qualified leadership to carry out the extension program.

Porkers Ready as Can Be for the Longhorns

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks leave today for Hot Springs, where they'll work out, spend the night and arrive to Little Rock tomorrow afternoon for their all-important Southwest Conference night game with Texas.

Coach Frank Broyles said all the Hogs were in good condition. They went through final hard workouts yesterday.

The Longhorns were scheduled to arrive in Little Rock today. Texas is a seven-point favorite in the battle of unbeaten. The teams take 4-0 season records in the battle. And Arkansas has an eight-game winning streak to preserve. Texas has won five straight counting its final game last year.

Coach Frank Broyles said yesterday the Hogs probably will take to their air against the Longhorns in an attempt to open up the Texas defenses and give the Razorback backs running room.

Both teams rely on speed, quickness and kicking to back up their winged-T offense. Lesli Lettinger and Lance Alworth worked on their punting yesterday in the final Razorback drill.

Lieu. Gov. Nathan Gordon has officially declared this week "Best Texas Week in Arkansas."

Tickets for the game are sold out. Over 40,000 fans are expected to jam War Memorial Stadium for the game. The bout has national significance since Texas is rated third in the nation and Arkansas is ranked 12th.

Stadium manager Allan Berry said that no standing room tickets would be sold.

Emmet Village Opening Set for Saturday

BUGGIES LIKE THESE will be a common form of transportation this Saturday when Arkla Village is formally dedicated at Emmet, with the public invited. Murrell Booker, above, former of the Arkla Carriage Works at the Village, checks over a horse-size top buggy (in front) and a jog cart.

REALISM IS THE KEYNOTE at Arkla Village, new frontier "town" one buggy and furniture making center to be dedicated during a gala opening celebration at Emmet Saturday. Here storekeeper Roy Roebuck stands next to his pride and joy — an old-fashioned show case in the village General Store. Inside are such Wild West relics as high-button shoes, assorted buttons and collars and old-style medicines show "cure-all" tonics.

MANAGER of the Arkla Village which opens formally Saturday is Ben Harding.

Editor of UA Newspaper Is Removed

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The editor of the Arkansas Traveler, student newspaper of the University of Arkansas, has been removed from his post in the wake of a dispute over publication of a document reported taken without authority from the office of the school's acting president.

Editor Jim Standard of Little Rock has been placed on disciplinary probation for the rest of the current term, it was disclosed today.

The action, taken by the university's Discipline Committee, automatically ousted Standard as editor of the daily newspaper.

Another student, whose name was withheld, drew similar punishment.

The information dealt with a possible 10 per cent budget cut by the university. It appeared in the Traveler last Friday. Acting President Storm Whaley said the document was taken from his office.

After the Discipline Committee's verdict, Standard said:

"Perhaps lessons have been learned by all concerned. Perhaps a college administration has become aware of the conflict between its public relations policies and the journalistic responsibilities of searching out the good, bad facts...perhaps all parties can learn to work together so that journalism students from the university campus can learn again what it really means when the presses roll."

Arnell Snow of Fort Smith has assumed temporary editorial direction of the Traveler.

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Dollar Mask, a 36-year-old widow, was killed instantly today when an automobile struck her as she was crossing a road on the way to a mailbox.

State Trooper Jerry Maynard identified the driver of the car as Robert Isom, 17, of Jonesboro.

The accident occurred on State Highway 12 about five miles east of Jonesboro. Mrs. Mask lived across the road from the mailbox.

Survivors include two sons and three daughters. Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

expired contract. Steelworkers were averaging $3.11 hourly before the strike.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Steelworkers Union was reported near agreement today with Kaiser Steel Co. on a strike settlement. The union was pressing the same proposals on the rest of the industry.

The union's proposed settlement terms were reported to call for a two-year package deal of benefits and wage raises worth about 21 cents an hour. Pre-strike earnings averaged $3.11 an hour.

Informants said the proposal called for no wage increase but substantial fringe benefits in the first year and a wage hike in the second year.

These sources also said the union had reached an understanding on the offer with Edgar Kaiser, chairman of the board of Kaiser Steel Corp.

In response to inquiries about this, Kaiser issued a statement saying Kaiser Steel Corp. has no written or verbal agreement or any commitment to enter into an agreement with the Steelworkers Union.

Kaiser is one of the 12 big steel companies banded together in bargaining with the union. A breakthrough by Kaiser would crack their solid front.

The industry was reported striving to keep Kaiser in line to continue resistance to union demands and hold out for a less expensive settlement.

There were rumors that several others of the 12 steel companies were also dithering with the union on settlement proposals. Mentioned in these rumors were Jones & Laughlin and Wheeling Steel Co.

Only 68 Have Invoked Law on Integration

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Supt. Terrell Powell says only 68 white students out of some 2,200 at two Little Rock public high schools have invoked a state anti-integration law to avoid sitting in the same class rooms with Negroes.

Under a token desegregation plan, the Little Rock School Board has assigned five Negroes to 1,500 pupil, former all white school.

Sixty-three whites have called on school officials to arrange their schedules to keep them from being in the same rooms with the Negroes at Central. Five white students had their classes juggled at Hall.

"We had fewer requests than we expected," Powell said yesterday.

The law used by the white students in Act 9 of 1958. It requires the school, on request, to place a student in classes attended only by members of his own race. Gov. Orval E. Faubus obtained the measure in a package of anti-integration acts passed by a special legislative session.

So far Act 9 has not been attacked in any court and school officials have said they must honor all requests made under the law's provisions.

Little Rock's four public high schools were closed by Faubus during the 1958-59 school year in a move to avert court-ordered integration. The school board expelled them with token desegregation. Area 12 after a federal court had thrown out the state school-closing law employed by the governor.

Powell said there have been no racial incidents at either Central or Hall this term. The other high schools are the all Negro Horace Mann and the small, all-white Technical High.

E. F. Dunn, superintendent of Pulaski County rural schools, said the situation was normal in an integrated elementary school attended only by children of persons stationed at Little Rock Air Force Base. This school opened with 300 white students and 10 Negroes last month. It was the first integration of the school which is located on county property.

CHAPTER XXXV

They hurtled along through the night, back the way she had come. Mallory held the microphone against his mouth and tried to raise sector headquarters at San Ysidro.

"Why don't they answer?" he muttered. "Has everybody gone to sleep?"

"Keep trying," Cloris soothed him. "They'll hear you."

"Once the truck gets to Tecate, we're dead. There's a hundred places they can cross the wire without being seen."

With a burst of anger, he yelled into the microphone, "Border. Patrol H. Q. — where are you?"

They were startled by the crackle of the loudspeaker. A man's voice said, "Sector here. I read you. Is that you, Mallory?"

"You bet it is! Get me the duty officer."

"Hold on a minute." A pause and then Kelso's voice rasped, "Mallory, what's happening? It's better be important — waking me up at this hour!"

Mallory said, "I've located the truck — does that suit you? It's somewhere between the Rancho El Carizo cutoff and Tecate, heading north. Map coordinates A-17, K-12. I'm in hot pursuit but it's got the jump on me."

"Do you know that Dr. Howard is somewhere in that area, too?"

"She's with me. Or I'm with her. I don't know which. How soon can you get here?"

"Half-hour," Kelso said. "Keep in touch."

Mallory replaced the microphone on its hook and grinned weakly at Cloris. "Well, sweetheart, it's up to us. In a half-hour, Blackjack will be across the line — Culbrie, the truck, the whole shebang."

The miles bounced away beneath them along with the minutes and still they saw nothing but the grim silhouettes of a desolate highland. "That truck is headed — it can't make very fast time," Mallory muttered. He didn't sound as if he believed himself.

They reached the ridge south of Tecate where the abandoned highway met the border road, the asphalt paving that ran roughly parallel to the international line on the Mexican side. Sometimes it veered within a few rods of the divide, sometimes it dodged south to avoid a difficult mountain slope. "Which way?" Cloris asked. On the hard surface there were no longer any tracks to follow.

"Wait," Mallory cried out of the jeep, kneeled on the asphalt. He rose, took a few steps and kneeled again. In a moment, he returned to the jeep, some yards, and bits of mud in his hand. "Dropped out of the truck's trail, not a very common make of tire."

He flung the mud away. "Head west. I'm betting they'll try to break through the wire as soon as they see a good spot."

They roared faster down the smooth highway.

They rubbed their eyes and widened them at the dark streak of a winding road, seeking another sign of something, anything. Then Mallory let out a yell of exultation. "I see it — the truck!" With a rifle from the rack.

Now, as if the reality had magnetized them, they closed rapidly on the slower moving vehicle. Its driver had evidently become aware of them, also. The truck careened back and forth on the highway, leaning heavily, then abruptly plunged off the road across a broad meadow dotted with the crouched shapes of mesquite. Its headlights swung, they brought into quick miraculous view the five strands of barbed wire, the token barrier that separated Mexico from the United States. The wire was less than a 100 yards away.

Bracing the rifle against his unshut shoulder, Mallory fired at the fleeing truck. This time there was no need to wait upon a challenge; the truck itself was a proven enemy, along with those it carried, whether human or animal or invisible. The threat was to murderous permit surrender — and plague had not known surrender for thousands of years.

His first two bullets had no effect. Monster-like, the big wheeled creature lumbered on through time. Mallory muttered. He didn't sound as if he believed himself.

U. S. Likely to Have Rival Arms Program

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A report circulated today that the United States will present a rival arms plan when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's total disarmament proposal goes before the 10-nation East-West committee in Geneva.

Sources close to the U.S. delegation to the U.N. said American disarmament experts are working quietly with the State Department on a plan covering the whole arms question as well as the thorny problem of adequate controls.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge hinted some such move was afoot when he spoke in the disarmament debate before the U.N. Assembly's main Political Committee Wednesday.

Lodge noted that President Eisenhower has set in motion a concentrated disarmament review which will prepare the United States to participate actively in the Geneva talks to open after the Assembly session. He stressed that the U.N. Disarmament Commission try to decide what principles of law should govern it.

in his mind until they shut out every other sensation. One was the vast importance of keeping the bead-sight lined on the gasoline tanks, the tiny globe of metal that momentarily had assumed the size of the world. The other was that regret that Aguilar couldn't be here, for this was his kill, too.

The rifle clicked empty in his hand. He drew his pistol and fired until it did the same. An explosion of light rocked the field as one of the bullets ignited the gasoline vapor. A blossom of flame drew up the side of the truck, shooting forth petals of brilliant orange. It changed, flowered into fingers of fire that mounted the canvas sides as if clawing for the sky. The truck swung in a half-circle and stopped, broadside to the fence 30 yards away.
